Hongkong, June 26th, 1875. In the spirit of prophecy Mr. H. N. LAY when writing to The Times on the late esteemed Admiral SHERARD OSBORN, says :---"The vicious policy of suffering our people to become the tools, instead of the guides, of the Chinese Government will, I make bold to say, before long be made manifest to all." There can be no objection to subjects of VICTORIA accepting positions under the Chinese Government, so long as they act as preteptors and guides to the Chinese in the path of progress. But while this may be readily conceded, it is a matter of opinion how lar it is possible for Englishmen in the service of the Hoppo of Canton to faithfully carry out their instructions, and at the same time fulfil the duties imposed upon them by their nationality. The seizure of the Carisbrooks has mainly excited attention from the fact that the Revenue gunboat fired iuto and disabled her. Great indignation has been expressed because the gurs we fired by an Englishman. It is certainly to be regretted that the guns of a foreign cruiser should have been levelled against a British steamer by British hands. Suppose for a moment that the shot had sunk the vessell and that, as would have been most likely. two-thirds of the passengers had perished. What would have been the consequence? In what light would the British Government have regarded the gunner? It would be Carisbrooke, has been accepted, and the steamer hard to say. We are not now discussing is expected to be in Hongkong harbour shortly. the merits of the case, nor do we intend to say how far the act was justified. The case has you to be settled at Peking. But it cannot be concealed that, had such a catastrophic as that sketched above occurred, it would have given rise to most painful sensations among the British residents in China. Its possibility has engendered an opinion in the minds of many in this colony that it will not be advisable in the future for British subjects to be permitted to remain in the and that if they elect to continue under the cash." Hoppo it must be at the risk of outlawry from their native land. It cannot be denied that they are more tools in the hands of the Hoppo, and that they are in no sense guides, No doubt they act with greater discretion than Chinese officials would do in similar circum. stances, but the system is calculated to cause Aping with stealing a fishing net. The prosecomplications of a most annoying and in- cut read three men came in company together jurious nature, and it is therefore a moot under pretence of buying something. The point whether or not Englishmen shall remain in the service of the Hoppo. Under gave the alarm and they all ran away and the other circumstances there might be no ob. prisoner dropped the net, but he was caught by jection, but while there is a chance of the Carisbrooks case being repeated again, was only passing by. British blood fairly boils at the thought of Chinese guns being directed against a British steamor by British officers in the pay of in Chinese Customs farmer. Mr. LAY's prognostication scems to have been fulfilled

CHINESE rogues are certainly not deficient outside Mesare. Jardine's premises. The priin cunning. BRET HARTE has credited them with pre-eminence in this respect, but to have been in use for some time. without conceding that they are more inventive than the light-fingered gentry in European cities and towns, it must be allowed that they are extremely fertile in devices and flered him in the sum of £5, or three for plundering the foreigner. cent on all possible occasions. A cowkeeper Messageries Maritimes Co., with stealing a deep in the employ of Messrs. JARDINE, MATHESON and Company, was caught by a Chinese constable with two quarts of milk comfortably disposed on his person. The rascal had, it appears, had a tin can so constructed that it fitted close to his body and could be carried without being perceptible. He had been in the employ of the firm for upwards of twelve months, and, as the can bore traces of having been constantly used, it is probable that he had carried on this dodge most of the time. No doubt the deficiency in quantity of milk had been made up from the water tap. He was fined $5, but it is to be feared this does not represent the aum he made by his frauemployers will not of course retain him this instance is but one of many, and it will be wise for European residents to exercise a sharp watch over the natives in their employ. It is impossible to trace out all their petty deliquencies, but where it can be avoided temptation should never be placed in their in two hours and denied the charge.

THE Australian Colonies are already respond-

THE CHURCH PORCH. When once thy fuot enters the church, be barc. God is more there than thou; for thou art there Only by his permission. Then beware, And make thyself all reverence and fear, Kneeling no'er spoil'd ailk stocking : quit thy state. All equal are within the church's gate.

Resort to sermons, but to prayers most Praying's the end of preaching. O be drest; Stay not for the other pin : why thou hast lost A joy for it worth worlds ! Thus hell doth jest Away thy blessings, and extremely flout thec. Thy clothes being fast, but thy soul loose about thee.

In time of service seal up both thine eyes, -And send them to thy heart; that seeing ain, They may weep out the stains by them did rise: Those doors being shut, all by the ear comes in. Who marks in church-time others' symmetry Makes all their beauty his deformity.

He that gets patience, and the blessing which Prenchers conclude with, hath not lost his pains. He that by being at church escapes the ditch. Which he might fall in by companions, goins. He that loves God's abode, and to combine With mints on earth, shall one day with them shine

Jest not at preacher's language or expression How know at thou but thy sins made him miscarry Then turn thy faults and his into confession : " God sent him whatsee'er he has: O tarry, And love him for his Master : his condition, Though it be ill, makes him no ill physician. GEORGE HERBERT (1680).

I heard many of them, sober as well as drank, avow it in the most different from what it has become in our times, for we see all the distinguished men. Oxford, Bolingbroke, and others, seeking to be advanced to the Peerage instead of considering it as a retirement. Sir Robert Walpole raised it not only by talents which were particularly adapted to it, but by using it as one of the best instruments of the false government, adopted at the accession of the House of Hanover, and persevered in during the reigns of George I. and George II. It may be easily conceived what progress an ardent mind with a dash of madness, and certainly a most extraordinary imagination. must have made, steadily directing his mind and time from his earliest youth, as Mr. Wilkes says, "to the studying of words and rounding of sentences," for he was totus in hoc, not appearing to have applied to any other branch of science whatever. It is remarkable that neither he nor Lord Granville could write a common letter well. Of his imagination he used to say himself that it was so strong that most things returned to him with stronger force the second time than the first. He was so attentive to forming his own taste, that he would not look at a bad print if he could avoid it, wishing not to hazard his eve for a moment. He either specificed or kept down every other passion with a view to forward his ambition. It would not be believed how much time he passed his time studying words and expres- Rates. sions, always, with a view to throw the esponsibility of every measure upon some other, while he held a high pompous unmeaning language. LORD MANSPIELD. Lord Mansfield was a very able advocate but of no kind of force or elevation, and cow'd by Mr. Pitt in the House of Commons with the imputation of early Jacobitism constantly hanging round his neck, besides belonging to the Duke of Newcastle. I have heard from different members of the Cabinet, that he never opened his lips during that administration. He was the most dilligent of human beings. It is a great mistake to suppose that these remarkable men are not diligent. I have known many and never knew an instance to the contrary. William Murray was sixteen years of age when he came out of Scotland, and spoke such broad Scotch that he stands entered in the University Books at Oxford as born at Bath, the Vice-Chancellor mistaking Bath for Porth.
